The slopes on Bald and Dollar mountains enjoy a nearly lift line-free existence all winter long, not to mention a nearly cloud-free one. Plus there's a 26,000-square-foot family center with everything from lessons to rentals to lockers. On mountain restaurants have menus loaded with fresh gourmet options from inexpensive to luxury. Boasting perfect-pitch vertical from peak to base, Bald Mountain has no flats, no plateaus and nothing but downhill. And with the barely a lift line, there's plenty of time to make as many turns as your legs will allow, usually under a sun that shines for 80 percent of the year. With runs ranging from expert to beginner, groomers to slalom challenges, Baldy is a mountain for people who like to go down, no matter how fast or what they strap to their feet.
